TWICE PROVEN

If you suffer backache, sleepless nights, tired, dull days and distressing urinary disorders, don't experiment. Read this twice-told testimony. It's Norway evidence—doubly proven.

E. C. Libby, Sanborn St., Norway, says: "I had a great deal of backache which annoyed me to do anything. My head ached and I noticed specks floating before my eyes and my sight blurred. I used different remedies but it was left to Doan's Pills to give me lasting results. I got Doan's at Stone's Drug Store and since using them I have had no return of kidney complaint." (Statement given June 6, 1916.)

On September 3, 1920, Mr. Libby said: "I haven't had occasion to use Doan's Pills or any other kidney medicine since being cured by Doan's. My faith in this remedy is just as strong as ever."

Flint's orchestra played for the dance at Hunt's Corner last Saturday night, and for the Pythian Sisters' dance at Norway, Monday evening. They will also furnish music for the Grange "Spasm" Saturday night.

Walter Lord, who has been suffering with a spinal trouble for some years, started for the hospital in Portland, Sunday night. His wife accompanied him. They went as far as Arthur Herrick's at Norway, where they stayed over night taking the early morning train.

The X-ray will be used to locate the trouble and determine whether an operation will benefit him or not. He seems to have more than his share of sickness. Was operated upon this fall in Portland and his wife was in the hospital for a serious operation a few weeks ago. It never rains but it pours, but still behind each cloud the sun is shining. His mother visited him for a number of days before he went, and was there with all of his children to bid him "God Speed," and pray for a speedy return to his home and health.

There will be a Christmas tree at the Bisbee schoolhouse, Thursday evening. Friends and parents are invited. Miss Grace Winn, the teacher, has taught a very successful term of school and has worked hard to get up the entertainment for the school.

Charles Saunders called on Walter Lord Sunday morning, and gave him some very encouraging advice that seemed to strengthen his courage a great deal. We wish there were more like him, to sympathize and give a helping word to those who are disheartened and in trouble.

Fred Hersey bought a pair of horses of Walter Lord this week.

Pearl Weymouth was down from Bethel and spent the week end with Walter Lord and family.

Roy Lord came from Success, N. H., one day last week to visit his brother, Walter, and returned the same day. Quite a drive in zero weather.

WE CAN ALL SUCCEED

A Maine bred man is the world's greatest authority of success. This seems to be a fair conclusion from the report that Edward W. Young of Cleveland, born thirty-five years ago at South Lebanon, Maine has won a thousand-dollar prize in the international contest for the best answer to the question, "What is success in life?" conducted by the Success Magazine. Nor does his answer to the question, chosen by a group of celebrated judges from among the thousands submitted, place success out of reach of each and every one of us. Says Mr. Young, "Know this—and be happy in the thought. Each day to have done your noblest—that is success." A happy philosophy, and one, we believe of perfect soundness. "Success," says this man from Maine "is any honest labor well done—any worthy task faithfully accomplished—any reputable profession honorably practiced. Success is establishing and holding artistically to high ideals, commercially. It is loyalty to one's self, to one's life work, to one's friends. It is vision, optimism, courage to carry on. Success is every conquest fairly won on life's field of honor."

Mr. Young's ideas on success—what a comfortable message he has given us! Every one of us can succeed every day by putting our best into the task before us.

The young man who worked his way through school is educated.

WHEN SANTA COMES

You bet he's on his way all right, December 24th, yes, that's the night. My, how he'll pant and puff and blow. For he's loaded down with toys, you know. They're for the good kiddies—ho, ho, ho. But for the bad ones, oh, oh, oh. For them I wonder what he'll leave. I'll bet he has something up his sleeve. If I was a bad boy, or had little girl, I know my head would be in a whirl. I'd be afraid my stocking to get. Would I shiver, well you just bet. But if I'd been good all the year through, I wouldn't worry much about you. For I'd know my stocking would bulge to the brim. With my very loved toys from him. So you'd better be loving and kind. I think that's the very best thing to do. So keep your hearts growing and bright. Each year, right up to Christmas Night.

—WINNIE GRAY CURTIS, North Bridgton, Maine.

NO VACATION FOR CARELESSNESS
Carelessness is always wide awake seeking to kill and injure.
Danger from carelessness, however, is not over. It takes no vacation. Hot weather does not curb its activities, nor do the cool fall days or the fierce blasts of winter. Children, especially must be on the alert. Parents should give their every possible assistance in meeting and overcoming the many difficulties that beset the pathway to the schoolroom and the return to the home.

Crossing streets heedlessly has left many a vigorous and happy child forever silent or a cripple. A few calm clear directions will prevent sorrow and grief. Don't begrudge the time spent today, tomorrow, and the next day in teaching them the rules of safety. With the dangers of our streets increasing from hour to hour they need it. The more vigorous they are, the greater their activity and the more animal spirit they possess the harder parents should strive to impress them with the necessity of care.

Children seldom reason, even when as old as fifteen. They must be impressed. Many children do not take kindly to curtailment of their play or restriction as to locality. But a careful talk, explaining to them how some boy or girl met with injury because of taking an unnecessary chance during play, forgetting what they had been told about avoiding what they will most always pave the way, and the once broken, the next and subsequent talks will begin to have effect.

Parents are negligent who fail to follow up such advantages. Presently the child will bring up the subject and say, "I agree with him in what he says. Make him feel his ideas are good. He will soon realize the importance of being responsible for himself and then for others."

It is unfortunate that some parents do not take the time to build up the child's mind along this line, really one of the most essential of his whole education.

Anthem, "Star of Bethlehem"
Pastoral Prayer
Solo, "The Star of Bethlehem"
Christmas Story (Selected)
Anthem, "There Were Shepherds"
Christmas Story (Selected)

Poultry

New Considered a Yearly Crop
Poultry now a days can be considered about the same as a yearly crop and since the laying hens are kept mostly only for one year and then disposed of to be replaced by a new crop of pullets.

In purchasing this new crop of pullets there must necessarily be raised also an equal number of cockerels and the replacing of the old hens means a large amount of poultry to be put on the market throughout the summer months. This poultry can be disposed of either dressed or alive but the question which has been uppermost in the poultryman's mind is which way will it bring in the most money.

Throughout the past year the Extension Service of the College of Agriculture conducted no less than twelve demonstrations to determine this fact. These demonstrations were held at a poultryman's place and 24 hens or cockerels were used for demonstration. In order to make an actual comparison these birds were weighed in the pen, the flock was divided and 12 of them shipped alive.

The other 12 were dressed, packed in a box and shipped to the same market on the same day and the results, in the way of returns, were compared. Incidentally, of course those present learned how to stick and dry poultry and how to pack them ready for shipment. The results were interesting and significant.

The poultrymen who conducted these demonstrations received 20 to 30c more per bird for those shipped dressed than for those shipped alive. With broilers there was a difference of a little more than 7c a pound in favor of the dressed birds.

These demonstrations do not only show whether it would be advisable to ship the birds dressed rather than alive but it showed how much it cost to ship birds either way so that one could determine the advisability of shipping birds to the Boston market or selling them locally.

It was found that it cost approximately 6c per pound based on the pen weight to ship birds dressed and approximately 4c per pound alive.

As a result of these demonstrations many of the poultrymen who witnessed them are taking advantage of the greater returns by dressing poultry.

The Extension Service has arranged for a considerable number of these demonstrations to be held in the various counties of the State this summer and fall so that an opportunity will be given to a larger number of poultrymen to determine the difference to be gained in the two methods of marketing.

Also no auto of any kind can legally use the roads with last year's number plates after Dec. 31.

Put on the 1925 number plates before starting your car, Thursday, Jan. 1, and comply with the law.

Don't go through Main Street at too fast a clip, use care and caution and keep out of court.

BATES—WEST PARIS

Mrs. Ella M. Bacon
Mrs. Ella M. Bates, who has been seriously ill for the past six months, passed away, Monday evening. The funeral was held Thursday at 1:30 P. M. in the Universalist church. Rev. Eleanor B. Forbes and Rev. Isabella S. Macduff, a former pastor, spoke and a male quartet from South Paris sang.

Mrs. Bates was the daughter of Phineas and Laura Benson Warner and was born in Paris, Jan. 14, 1851. The home farm was on the road to Sumner from North Paris. She married Lewis C. Bates and after several years they moved to New Haven, Conn., where he and his brother went into the cold storage business. They remained there some time and made good. On account of malaria and Mrs. Bates' health they came back here fifteen or twenty years ago, where they have since made their home. They have one son, Vernal Bates, who has remained in the business in New Haven, also one grandson, Lewis Theodore Bates.

Mrs. Bates was a fine woman in every sense of the word, philanthropic and lovable. No one beside her Heavenly Father will ever know all the good deeds she did. The Universalist church, to which she belonged, will always hold her in loving remembrance. She was Sunday School Superintendent up to the time of her illness. She has also been president of the Good Will Society and president of the W. C. T. U. for ten years or more, the members of which will never forget her loyalty.

Interment was in the home lot in West Paris cemetery. The pall bearers were Harry Patch, R. T. Flavin, H. D. Fifield and H. W. Dunham.

See the Red Border blank on page 11 or 13. Fill out and send with check, cash or stamps to the Advertiser Office.

The Christmas season will be observed in the Sunday morning church services and by a Union concert Sunday evening at the Baptist church. The day school teachers are the committee in charge and the entire high school and grades are included in the chorus. There will also be some readings.

The Sunday Schools of the churches will have Christmas trees and entertainments on Christmas Eve.
The drama, "The Road to the City," was given last Thursday evening to a good house and the parts were well taken. The play was full of pep and interest and a good lesson. The plot part was mostly acted out in a dream which proved a warning heeded. The actions were only of the story. They went to North Buckfield Friday evening. They expect to repeat it elsewhere and possibly again here but not until after Xmas.

The Grange enjoyed a good social time last Saturday with an oyster stew dinner. They entertained a few invited guests to dinner. The afternoon was spent with business and the election of officers.

The stores are prettily decorated for Xmas, especially G. A. Smith's and Gammon & Martin's. They have a good line of holiday goods mostly in the useful line. S. T. White has specialized in books and stationery, Dunham in shoes and gentlemen's apparel and K. Korhonen in all lines pleasing to his Finnish trade.

OXFORD

See the Red Border blank on page 11 or 13. Fill out and send with check, cash or stamps to the Advertiser Office.

The Christmas exercises at the Advent Sunday School will be held Sunday evening at 7 o'clock in the church and the Christmas tree will be at the home of Ai Twitchell on Fore Street, Wednesday evening. There will be automobiles to take the members of the Sunday School up there from the village.

Mrs. Anne Trebillock and daughter, Hazel, were in Lewiston, Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Trebillock and nephew, William Hodgman from Lewiston, visited relatives here, Sunday.

Miss Helen Knightly from Paris is visiting at Mrs. W. M. Boyd's for a few days.

Mrs. Frances Burns is visiting her sister, Mrs. W. B. Haskell.

NOBLE'S CORNER

The Neighboring Nine Club met, Monday afternoon with Mrs. Percy Upton. The time was devoted in the usual manner. Light refreshments of home made candies were served. All nine members were present. Next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Charles Herrick, Tuesday evening, Dec. 23, when the Club will have a Christmas tree for the members and their families.

NORWAY AND VICINITY

Shaw's Saturday night dances at Norway Grange hall have been postponed until after the holidays. Date will be announced.

The second part of the annual fair given by the ladies of the Universalist church, Thursday evening, was a success. A delicious supper was served at 6.30 with Mrs. Maud Deoster and Miss Della Noyes at the head of an active committee. The play which followed entitled "Strong Medicine," created laughter and was an entertaining story. Mrs. John Adams, who is making her home with her daughter, Mrs. O. P. Stineford, has been having the prevailing distemper and has been threatened with pneumonia.

Church Notes

Christ Church
The Christ Church Sunday School hike which was to have been on Monday, Dec. 22, has been changed to Saturday, Dec. 20th, leaving the church at nine sharp. Mrs. Potter has invited the hikers to stop at her home.
An augmented choir with Howard H. Potter director, will sing at the Christmas Sunday service next Sunday at 10.45 A. M. J. Henderson Carson, the Lay Reader, will conduct the service.
There will be a special Christmas Eve service on Wednesday, Dec. 24, from 11 P. M. to 12 M., and all denominations in the community are invited to participate. There will be a carol service conducted by J. Henderson Carson, with singing under the direction of Mr. Potter. It is hoped the Yule time custom of ushering in the day with singing and sincere rejoicing will meet with favor and that many will respond.

The finely decorated windows of the Norway Buick Co. are illuminated by a spot light on a pole directly across the street. This is a new idea for Norway, and overcomes many inconveniences found in window illumination. Nellie Clives and Dorothy Flint are at home from the Eastern State Normal School, Castine, for the Christmas vacation.
A shortage of steam at some of the business places, Monday, caused the local joker, "Shavey" Noyes, to travel about with an empty pail seeking a supply from the more fortunate ones.

Sports

Oxford 1430; Norway 1383
At Parrins' A.ley, Tuesday evening, Oxford climbed over the Norway confining in each of the three strings and pulled out 47 minutes ahead.

Paul Hosmer rolled highest for Norway in a single and game total. Summary:

	OXFORD	NORWAY

Norway vs. West Paris

NORTH BRIDGTON

The last meeting of the Woman's Club was with Mrs. F. O. Chadbourne. Following the usual program of current events by each member, Mrs. Charles W. Hill gave a reading about antiques and Mrs. Cleora Pingree a paper on "Old Salem." Mrs. Chadbourne served refreshments during the social hour.

Regular preaching services on Sundays are now held in the evening. Sunday School is at 1:30 in the afternoon followed by the Y. P. S. C. E. meeting.

Rev. and Mrs. W. S. Carne of Gorham were callers, Saturday night, at M. R. Wilbur's.

The Ladies' Circle served one of their good suppers which are always well patronized by towns people and Academy people, on Wednesday evening.

John Wells, one of our estimable townspeople, is daily in his store serving the public as he has done for almost fifty years, despite the fact that he has seen 84 winters.

Bridgton Academy

Tuesday evening, Dec. 9, Potter Academy basketball squad visited N. S. As the close of the first half, Potter led slightly in score, but in the second bout, Bridgton Academy boys braced up, capturing the game with a score of 40-26. A return game with Potter was played in their Sebago Hall, where we suffered defeat to the tune of 17-13.

Miss Erna Watson of Naples, a former teacher in the Academy, spent the past week visiting the teachers, Principal and Mrs. Sampson, Miss Merriman and Miss Hunt, and Mrs. Ridlon one of the matrons. Several little social affairs was enjoyed by this group and the meeting with teachers and former pupils was greatly enjoyed.

Fair a Success

The Fair held Thursday and Friday afternoons from 3:00 to 5:00 P. M. and evenings, was a decided success and netted a good sum to promote basketball, hockey, track and other winter sports. The success was made by the village people, parents, of students, friends from Harrison, Bridgton, Watford and the surrounding towns who generously supported and patronized the affair.

The general committee was Frank R. Bradbury of East Brownfield, Le'on R. Pitts, Naples and George Morong, North Haven. The great success of the affair is due to them but it could never have been accomplished but for the hard work of the committees and the loyal support of all students, and able guidance of the teachers.

The County Fair held in Ingalls Hall our gymnasium, was unique and exceedingly well executed. John Hillman & Co. first called in the evening to a wonderful side show, of world wide curiosities. A fish round where Truman Picket collected dimes of the anglers was well patronized. Wandering Amos, George Morong, looked next morning as if the balls had rained on him. Street Race & Co. prepared and ice cream that was the real attraction. Phil Linscott and Chas. H. U. with the able assistance of Marion Kennard and Leona Skillings, served the hottest hot dogs and delicious sandwiches. The Wild Man, Robert Sanborn, was frightful enough. Wallace Samuels, president of the Academy, presided.

Break Show attracted a crowd of patrons who were well rewarded for parting with a dime.

To learn the future proven well by past related, one had but to visit the attractive palmist, Eva Mackie. One young lady featured, Kies in the "Dance" (candy of course). Key, the balloon man, as a remarkable character who quickly disposed of his wares. Earl Lubebe shouted for the African dodger.

The Announcer, Oscar Norrman, assessed a wonderful voice and added many dimpled waltzers to the fund by directing attention to all these features and many more.

Speaking Contest

The speaking contest for the Edward T. Brown Prize, Friday evening, received most favorable comments, for all contestants spoke with ease, grace, animation and effect, which showed careful preparation of their selections. The program was as follows:

Peaceable Secession Impossible.	Daniel Webster
The Leak in the Dam.	Phoebe Cary
Geia Whiam	Walt Whitman
O Captain! My Captain!	Walt Whitman
The Newboy's Debt.	Hunt
Glads Pitter	Glads Pitter

Sertha Holden	Sertha Holden
Sandy.	Alice H. Ric
Philip Wilbur	Philip Wilbur
How the Old Horse Won the Bet.	O. J. Holmes

Awarding of Prizes

The judges were Supt. Guy M. Monk, Rev. Winfield Witham and Miss Ryle who awarded first prize for young ladies to June Isabel Brown of North Waterford; first prize for young men to George H. Larson of Milton, Mass. The second prize was given to Charles M. Hamlin of North Bridgton.

Christopher A. Record, Superintendent of Schools in Abington, Mass., sent several valuable books to our school library last week. He will be remembered as one of the prominent members of the class of '86. Books have also been received from Mrs. Scott Wilson, B. A. '87, a member of the Portland School Board, and Dr. Eugene Holden, a student in the early '90's and now a prominent New York physician. We greatly appreciate these gifts, so necessary in our work, from these loyal alumni.

WEST STONEHAM

Mr. and Mrs. I. A. Andrews have returned home from Stow where they have been camping while Mr. Andrews was trapping and hunting. He has been very successful in his search for game but we are glad to have them at their home here again.

W. A. Hersey's teams are hauling birch from the lot on the North Stoneham road where Fred Warren's crew from North Lovell is cutting to the mill by way of the main road.

Mr. and Mrs. John D. Grover and children, Douglas, Harriet and William, dined with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. McKean at North Lovell. John C. Mason of North Lovell has been cutting wood in this place the past week.

SOUTH RUMFORD

Edwin E. Abbott

The death of Edwin E. Abbott occurred at his home in East Rumford early Sunday evening, Dec. 14, after a ten day's illness with pneumonia, though the exact cause of his death was a weak heart. He was born in East Rumford, Feb. 10, 1891, the son of Emory and Mahala Godwin Abbott.

In 1891 he married Harriet Clark of South Rumford, who survives him, as do their three children, Mary, wife of Ralph Stone of Rockland, Wallace and Alvin, who both live at home. He also leaves one sister, Mrs. Emma Flanders of Brookline, Mass., and several nephews and nieces. Mr. Abbott sold his home farm several years ago and moved into the village and has since been employed by the Clark Foundry Co. when his health permitted.

DIXFIELD

Edward Stanley Died in Portland
Edward Stanley, a native of Dixfield, and for 50 years a resident well known man of Boston, died Dec. 9 in a Portland hospital following a brief illness. He had come to Portland to visit his nephew, Chester C. Stanley of 8 Dartmouth street when taken suddenly ill.
Coming to Portland from Dixfield when a young man, Mr. Stanley was employed for a time with the A. S. Hines Co., before going to Boston. There he associated with the late James H. Prince, at that time New England agent for the Monitor Oil Stove Co. of Cincinnati, O. For years Mr. Stanley traveled through Maine and built up a wide acquaintance here. He later persuaded Mr. Prince to enter the paint and varnish business in his own name and the two men formed the James H. Prince Paint Co. of Boston, Mr. Stanley serving as president for 20 years prior to his death.
He died at the age of 75, his health having gradually failed since the death of his wife about two years ago.
Besides his nephew Chester Stanley of Dartmouth street he leaves two other nephews Arthur M. Stanley of Dixfield and Charles L. Stanley of Mexico.

Fear thou not for I am with thee; he not dismayed; for I am thy God: I will strengthen thee; yea, I will help thee; yea, I will uphold thee with the right hand of my righteousness.—Isaiah 41:10.

I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept my faith: Henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness.—2 Timothy 4:7.

FEDERAL CONTROL OF EDUCATION

Beyond a shadow of doubt State Master Abbott of the Maine State Grange voiced the sentiments of the great majority of the people of the State when he expressed his disapproval of the proposed supervision of the public schools of the Country by the Federal Government. Mr. Abbott was not tilting at windmills nor dealing with a theory in what he had to say on this subject. A bill providing for just what the state master said that he is opposed to is now before the Congress. It proposes the creation of a Federal department of education, the appropriation of money for the support of the same and the fixing of conditions under which the states may receive their share of these appropriations.

In other words it proposes to take out of the hands of the states and municipalities a certain measure, at least, of their control of the public schools at the price of a dime to be paid out of the National treasury.

The Federal aid sop is one that has proved very tempting to the states in the past. It seemed so much like getting something for nothing that the states have readily swallowed the bait thus temptingly dangled before them and in so doing have surrendered to the central government control over affairs which the states could better handle themselves.

Maine has been like the rest of the states and has been ready to accept the price for surrendering to the Federal government certain of its prerogatives largely to the influence of Governor Baxter the State decided to call a halt on selling out its rights to Washington when the so-called maternity bill came to be considered. Maine then virtually said to Washington, "Thus far shalt thou go and no further."

The Legislature in our opinion will interpose its veto this Winter when it comes to pass upon the so-called child labor amendment, which is not a child labor law at all, but a proposition to place in the hands of Congress the authority to control the labor of youth. The maternity bill, the child labor amendment and the educational bill are all legislation of the same piece of cloth. They are measures delegating to the central government authority which was reserved to the states when the Union was formed.

The Maine State Grange is opposed to all three of these measures and the members of this great body of men and women are doing their state a good service in declaring their position.—Portland Express.

If ye will obey my voice indeed and keep my covenant, then ye shall be a peculiar treasure unto me above all people: for all the earth is mine: and ye shall be unto me a kingdom of priests, and a holy nation.—Exodus 19: 5, 6.
Let all bitterness, and wrath, and anger, and clamour, and evil speaking, be put away from you, with all malice: and be ye kind to one another, tender hearted, forgiving one another, even as God for Christ's sake hath forgiven you.—Ephesians 4:31, 32.

Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind: and thy neighbour as thyself. This do and thou shalt live.—Luke 10:27, 28.

GIVE THE YOUNG THINGS A CHANCE

On the farm the health of the young things depends largely the profits of the farm in the next twelve months to come. On their thrift will depend whether the boy or girl can go to college, whether there will be a new piano, or new rugs, whether modern conveniences will be placed in the home.

Therefore, it is of the utmost importance that these young things be properly cared for when they come. They have a right to fair and decent chance. Before man ock care of live stock, the young things had a better chance than they have now, even though the wolf and coyote lay in wait for them. These were not half so dangerous as the enemies that are found in the majority of stables.

Animals are endowed with an instinct of cleanliness, particularly so at the time they give birth to their young and during their early life. The wild turkey, or even the half-domesticated wild turkey will not roost in the same spot of ground two nights in succession. She will have a clean place to hover her brood over night. The cow, even under domestication, will not drop her calf on a filthy hearding ground, but will go away by herself, so that her offspring may fall upon a clean spot, and she will get away even from that spot as soon as possible. The fawn when when it is dropped, will as soon as it has refreshed itself at nature's fountain, move away to a new spot. If they are in pairs, the second one will move in the opposite direction, and the doe herself will move to a point where she can see both. You never hear of calf cholera in the summer time when the calves are dropped in a clean field. You will have plenty of cases of it, when the calves are dropped in the stable.

If we are to have good luck with the young things, therefore, it is of the utmost importance that we provide a clean place on which they can make their entrance into this world. If not, there will be calf cholera. Your calf may have navel disease, and it might as well die, better in fact. Your pigs will become puny and wind out; you don't know why; and you are likely to have bad luck with your lambs. The reason for all this bad luck is unsanitary conditions, dirt; to put it in plain English—filth.

You have not followed nature. Why, even a brood sow, if left alone, will go away by herself to make her nest. And she will not eat anything for a couple of days because she knows that if she eats heavily her pigs are likely to have milk fever and die. Let us try to get hold of the wisdom with which nature has endowed the mother, and supply the same cleanliness under farm conditions that the young enjoy in the wild state.

Whenever a farmer allows his cow to drop a calf in a filthy stable, he invites calf cholera. The calf will come all right, but is likely to take what is known as white scours, and die probably within forty-eight hours. What was the cause of this? A filthy stable. The disease germs came in contact with the green navel. Remember that the calf, before birth, was fed through the navel cord; and until that closes up, which is a matter of two or three days, it affords the easiest access to germs. When they get into the system the calf is likely to die. What is the preventive? Have the stable clean. Tie the navel cord as soon as you see it; then disinfect it.

The same is true of the colt. No man who expects a brood mare to drop a colt should have her put in a dirty stable. If you have no other place for her, clean out the stable, disinfect it, and give her a bed of clean straw, and then do with the navel cord as we have told you to do in the case of a calf. Scottish farmers have noticed a very heavy decrease in lambs in the last part of the lambing season. Why? Because the enclosures have become filthy.

Give the young things a chance to be born, and then give them a chance to start right. Every young thing is entitled to the first milk. Although there is not much fecal matter left in the bowels of the calf at birth, having been nourished through its whole existence by the mother's blood, there is some, and nature provides in the first milk a powerful aperient and tonic, medicine such as no doctor can prescribe. This is true of all mammalian human beings as well as other animals. If the young animal is deprived of this it's birthright. Nature always provides for the care of the young things, and is you will follow their methods, you will have success.

Many farmers allow their young calves to become puny and weak through bad feeding after they begin to feed by hand. Some calves are killed because the milk of the dam is too rich. The balanced ration for the calf is the milk of the cow on the open range. If we, by long generation of culture, increase the butter-fat content of the milk, we throw it out of balance for the calf. If we skim the butter-fat off and feed the skim-milk, that is out of balance, and unless we restore the balance, we must not expect success. Nature feeds the young with a balanced ration, she feeds it warm, feeds it sweet, feeds it often. If we feed the young calf cold milk, if we feed it sour milk, or if we feed it sweet milk one time and another, or if we let the calf almost starve and then give it all that it craves in its extreme hunger, what else can we expect but trouble?

Certainly the young things are entitled to a chance; are entitled to a clean stable a clean place to be born in. They are entitled to a well ventilated and well lighted place to spend their early life. They are entitled to a balanced ration such as nature would have given them if we had not "budded in." They are entitled to a chance to stretch their limbs, and play and exercise. An understanding of the ways of nature is of more value than the skill of the physician to deal with a disease after it has made its appearance on the farm through neglect of the farmers.

Better Potatoes

Improved Potato Seed Campaign in Oxford County During 1924
Throughout Oxford County attractive posters, calling farmers' attention to the value of improved potato seed, are being put up by certain people delegated by the county agent. They are being put up on old barns, in Grange halls, stores, etc.

The make-up of the poster was decided upon at the July conference of county agents held in Orono, and the statements thereon are true statements and are based upon the results of demonstration work carried on by the Farm Bureau and Extension Service all over the State. These demonstrations brought out the striking fact that improved seed yielded an average of 35 per cent. more potatoes per acre than common seed. Once tried out by one not familiar with improved seed will prove the above statement to his satisfaction.

The slogan, "Best Seed Maine's Creed," found near the bottom of the poster was sent in by E. P. Flewelling, Silver Mills, Pisquaticus County, during the improved potato seed campaign slogan contest that was conducted over the entire State.

The purpose of the poster is to call potato growers' attention to the fact that an improved potato seed campaign will be conducted in Oxford County during 1925 and to emphasize the importance of improved seed.

During the summer of 1924 twenty-four seed plots were carried as demonstrations, many of which yielded at the rate of 400-450 bushels per acre. More than 1300 bushels of improved seed were planted in Oxford County in 1924. These plots were inspected for disease by the County Agent and diseased plants removed.

This seed is exceptionally free from disease and of good quality and uniform in size and shape. Based on yields with improved seed, compared to common stock, it has meant a saving of $13,104. to Oxford County farmers, who have used it.

Following is the experience of some of the improved seed potato growers in the county:

One of the most important of many things accomplished by the Farm Bureau has been the introduction of improved potato seed among the farmers. This feature like many other new projects was difficult to get started, for the farmers like most other people are inclined to be rather skeptical about new methods until they have been shown the advantage of the new over the old.

Investigations have proved the superiority of certified seed over the older, ordinary seed. In 1920 and 1921 it was shown by investigation that between 50 per cent. and 60 per cent. of the potatoes raised in this section were diseased. In 1922 certified seed were first introduced. The increase in both quantity and quality was amazing. In 1923 five bushels of potatoes, raised from certified seed in 1923 were planted. The yield was 115 bushels. This year 23 bushels of the same potatoes yielded a crop of 405 bushels. The quality of these potatoes is such that while the retail price of ordinary varieties in the local market ranges from 50 to 80 cents, these potatoes easily command $1.00 per bushel.

On the farm of E. G. Knapp of Byron a demonstration was carried on in his general field. The increased yield on 8 linear rods of certified seed was 71 pounds or 139 bushels per acre.—F. R. Taylor, Frye.

The Experience of E. A. Barker of Bethel
Improved Potato Seed
For five or six years previous to my connection with the Farm Bureau I had been unable to get 100 bushels of potatoes per acre. I gave them good care and used good fertilizer. But two years ago County Agent Lovejoy came into my field and said that I was throwing away my seed and time, and that my potatoes were 90 per cent. diseased.

The next year I bought 12 bushels of certified seed. I gave them the same care except that I sprayed them more times, and they were inspected for disease by the county agent and myself four times. I also planted a bushel of potatoes for a seed plot by the tuber unit method. From that bushel I harvested 37 bushels of fine potatoes from which I selected 25 bushels for seed. From 12 bushels planted an acre, I harvested 325 bushels of extra fine potatoes with hardly any culls. This year from two acres planted from my seed which was selected, I harvested 725 bushels. I have proved to my satisfaction that I can double my profits by using improved seed, and it has meant at least $200. extra to me per year.

Other men who have had very good yields with improved seed are Jesse W. Adams, Dixfield, who harvested 60 bushels from 1-6 of an acre which means at the rate of 360 bushels per acre. S. L. Sanderson, the Oxford County Crops Project Leader, harvested 50 bushels from 1-6 of an acre. A. H. Russ, Woodstock, secured a yield of 372 bushels per acre. A number of other good yields were reported.

E. A. Barker, as previously mentioned, secured 58 bushels of extra fine seed from his plot of 1-8 acre which is equivalent to a yield of 464 bushels per acre.

The Experience of E. S. Barrett of Sumner
I have raised on an average two acres of potatoes for the last 17 years, and I have planted common seed until 1921. My yields used to average about 150 bushels per acre with common seed and with good care.
In 1921 I became interested in the Oxford County Farm Bureau and County Agent Lovejoy at that time asked me if I would try an acre of improved potatoes the next year and enter them for certification. I did this and the yield from that acre was 380 bushels. In 1923 I planted a tuber unit plot of potatoes besides a field of 1-3 acres, which were entered for certification and passed all of the requirements of the State Department of Agriculture. My yield that year was 541 bushels per acre, which I believe is a State record for that year. The seed plot of one bushel yielded 37 bushels of marketable potatoes. This year, from seed selected from the 1923 plot, I planted a tuber unit plot consisting of 174 potatoes, or units, which yielded 471 bushels of 1-2 bushels of potatoes. The actual measurement of the plot being less than 1-10 of an acre. The seed was all soaked in corrosive sublimate. The soil was cultivated frequently to keep down the weeds and to conserve moisture, and the potatoes were dusted as often as new foliage developed. I consider that the use of improved seed, as recommended by the Extension Service, has more than doubled the yield of my potatoes, and doubled the profits.

RADIO IN 1925

What is going to happen in radio in 1925?

Nearly every fan has been asking this question, for he wants to know just what kind of a set to build or buy, what kind of broadcasting will be on the air, and what kind of reception he may expect.

During the last three years, radio development has been largely in the realm of reception, along the lines of improving receiving apparatus.

The development of transmission during the year will be along three well-defined lines, two of which will involve super-power. The third is national broadcasting through the interconnection of broadcasting stations by means of telephone land wires. All three systems will be experimental in character at first, proceeding according to recommendations of the Third National Radio Conference in Washington, D. C. Thus, the use of super-power will be subject to immediate cancellation, should the fears of those who say it will tend to create a monopoly of the air materialize.

The first plan under the super-power scheme involves the erection of high-powered broadcasting stations at points removed from any thickly populated area. Such stations will be connected with studios in the cities by means of land wires.

The second system of super-power broadcasting involves the use of short wave for below the range of the present-day receivers.

The third system is the interconnection of all existing broadcasting stations by means of a network of land telephone wires.

Another important development in broadcasting that will effect every radio fan during the coming year is the re-zoning of the country, which will be divided into six broadcasting zones instead of five. Under this plan the northwestern Atlantic states will have stations operating on the same wave length as stations in Pacific Coast states. This can be done without interference because of the great distance between stations and also because there is a difference of three hours between the two coasts.

An increase in the broadcast wavelength band to include waves down to 200 meters and up to 550 meters means that the radio fan who is buying or building a new set should make sure that it will tune.—Sunday Press-Herald.

REVIEW OF PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Editor Norway Advertiser:—

Has everyone read the President's message. I hope so for it will give us all a new understanding of the minds of those tax payers similar to those that Secretary Mellon has refunded $157,000.00 of paid in taxes.

In brief, the president's message is this that these men that have the great incomes are willing to pay more taxes than they now pay, only they want to pay it, as an excess tax and not an excess profits. Strange is it not?

What man among us would be willing to have his taxes on his farm increased $100.00 for the sake of having the tax on his cows reduced $25.00.

Here is that part of the message as published in the Boston Globe of Dec. 4th, "The country is now feeling the direct stimulus which comes from the passage of the last revenue bill, and under the assurance of a reasonable system of taxation there is every prospect of an era of prosperity of unprecedented proportions. But it would be idle to expect any such results unless business can continue free from excess profits taxation and be accorded a system of surtaxes at rates that have for their object, not the punishment of success or the discouragement of business, but the production of the greatest amount of revenue from large incomes."

This would seem absurd were it not as rational as other parts of the same message.

Again he says, "The Government cannot successfully insure prosperity or fix prices by legislative fiat. Every business has its risks and its times of depression." And yet this is precisely what a Republican Congress and a Democratic President did in the Cummings-Esch bill and by the consequent tremendous increase in transportation rates has taken not millions but billions of dollars from the public. It is therefore presumable that our president that is so interested in the welfare of the farmer and the laboring public, will hasten to repeal such an unjust law. He says the farmer must be helped on marketing. Here is the place to begin Mr. President.

Again he says Farmers must "co-operate." Presumably he will lead us to operate where the profits are large. Those being the only places where the public can save their money.

He knows we are tremendous users of "Gas." Not long ago we were paying 30c a gallon for gas at wholesale. Then it went, step by step, down to 13c and still they made money. Now it is on the climb upward and our president has not signified that he has any intention of stopping the advance. One of those gas companies having a capitalization of $906,000,000.00 paid 12 per cent. and then in a few years made a stock dividend of $396,000,000.00 and still has a surplus capital to work with of $129,603,804.00.

But in case "Oil" has become distasteful he can take "Steel" where we pay three times the pre-war price for their goods, when the manufacturing cost has advanced not over 20 per cent.

Notwithstanding these things, I venture to say that after this commission that is to make a microscopic examination of the troubles of agriculture have spent a year or two on a paying job, the farmer and the general public will find they have been led around and round in devious places but are finally tied up at the same old stanchion.

Yours truly,
R. L. Cummings.

DENMARK

Miss Lizzie Pingree passed away, Wednesday, Dec. 10, at the home of her brother, Almon Pingree, after being ill nearly two years. Her death was sudden to the family as she had seemed so much better the last few weeks.

Funeral services were held at the home of her brother, Friday afternoon.

She is survived by one brother, Almon Pingree, and one sister, Mrs. Cynthia McNeider of North Dakota. Mr. Benson of Cornish officiated at the funeral. Many beautiful flowers were sent by friends in different places.

Fred Davis has been very ill, but is some better at this writing. Bert Dresser has been caring for him. His son, Walter, is with him.

Mr. and Mrs. George Trumbull were Sunday visitors at the home of W. C. McEarly.

The drama, "The Path Across the Hill," was well played and a nice crowd was present in spite of the bad traveling.

The school closed, Friday, after being in session 14 weeks. It will reopen after Christmas.

There are quite a number sick with these bad colds that are raging in many different places.

Ed. Head of Westbrook has been in town visiting friends and relatives.

Iva Bryant and Bernice Haines spent Friday night and Saturday in Mechanic Falls and Lewiston.

Ernest Brooks of Gorham, N. H., recently visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alpheus Brooks.

The Sunday School is well attended. A planning meeting was held last week with Mrs. Colby Ring and new supplies were ordered. A Christmas entertainment will be held at the schoolhouse the Sunday after Christmas.

On Wednesday, the 24th, the school will enjoy a tree and give a Christmas program to which parents and friends are invited. Teacher and pupils are working hard to make the affair one of pleasure with true Christmas spirit.

KEEPING AT PUBLICITY

The trouble with the advertising habits exemplified by some business men is that they have never conceived of advertising as a settled and regular policy that ought to be followed right along.

If manufacturers and wholesale dealers followed out any such passive policy they would usually come to grief. There is no doubt are some exceptional concerns whose merchandise has an unusual hold upon the markets, due to some special advantage, that it can get along for years without aggressive sales promotion work. But such a business is exceptional.

The ordinary manufacturing or jobbing firm has to place a great deal of emphasis on its sales work as a consistent policy, to be carried on right along at large expense regardless whether at any particular time it can show a profit or not. It can not adopt a passive attitude and simply fill such orders as come in naturally without effort.

It must have a consistent policy every day in the year for getting out after new trade and soliciting business from new and old customers. It must send out salesmen, or distribute circulars, or all three, or something else along the same line.

If sales promotion through sending out solicitors and advertising is usually essential to success in the wholesale line, it would seem as if the same condition must prove true in retail distribution. And a newspaper advertising, in appealing to a local field, usually covers the ground so much more efficiently and economically than sending around solicitors, this means that the principles that prevail in general business would suggest that a consistent policy of regular advertising will be wonderfully beneficial to any retail concern.

He that will love life, and see good days, let him refrain his tongue from evil, and his lips that they speak no guile. —Peter 3:10.

Children May Solve Problem of Traffic

Awards Offered Elementary School Pupils of Nation for Best Essays on Highway Safety

Can children solve the traffic problem?

In connection with the fourth national safety educational campaign announced by the Highway Education Board, American school children are to be given an opportunity to answer the vexing question that now engages the attention of the best engineering minds of the country.

The announcement offers more than $6,500 in cash prizes and medals to elementary school pupils and elementary school teachers who submit the best essays and the best lessons in the 1924 national essay and national lesson contest. Officials of the Board are not optimistic enough to believe, it is said, that any final solution will come from the essays of the children, but it is believed that a nationwide consideration of the traffic problem will have a beneficial effect in reducing the number of accidents and fatalities on streets and highways.

The basic principle is to train the children in careful conduct on streets and highways and to impress upon them a sense of personal responsibility. This contest is the fourth consecutive competition conducted under the auspices of the Board, approximately one million, two hundred thousand pupils, an average of at least 400,000 annually, have participated in the three preceding contests.

All pupils of the fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades are eligible to compete, whether attending public, private or parochial schools. Four hundred and eighty-eight checks and as many medals will be given for the best state essays, while three national prizes will be awarded for the three essays chosen as the best of all those to be written throughout the nation. The first national prize is a gold watch and a trip to Washington, with all expenses paid. The second and third prizes are gold watches of relative values.

All state and national prizes in the pupils' contest are given by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, which has incorporated in its safety problem a plank calling for safety education in the schools. In addition to the prizes and medals for pupils, this organization offers to the teacher writing the best practical safety lesson a check for $500 and a trip to Washington. As second and third prizes checks for $300 and $200 will be given to the successful teachers.

Pupils are requested to write essays on the subject "My Conduct on Streets and Highways," while the teachers are invited to prepare practical lessons for use in the classroom. Essays are not to exceed 500 words in length, while lessons by teachers may vary between 1,000 and 3,000 words, according to the inclination of the teacher.

Each state is entitled to one first prize, a gold medal and a check for fifteen dollars, and to one second prize, a silver medal and a check for ten dollars. The number of third prizes, bronze medals and checks for five dollars varies in proportion to the elementary school enrollment.

Posters and folders containing detailed information concerning the contests are being sent to all schools throughout the country, as well as to Alaska, Hawaii, Porto Rico, the Philippines, and the Canal Zone. Individual requests will be promptly answered if addressed to the Highway Education Board, Willard Building, Washington, D. C.

HOW TO SOLVE A CROSS-WORD PUZZLE

When the correct letters are placed in the white spaces this puzzle will spell words both vertically and horizontally. The first letter in each word is indicated by a number, which refers to the definition listed below the puzzle. Thus No. 1 under the column headed "horizontal" defines a word which will fill the white spaces up to the first black square to the right, and a number under "vertical" defines a word which will fill the white squares to the next black one below. No letters go in the black spaces. All words used are dictionary words, except proper names. Abbreviations, slang, initials, technical terms and obsolete forms are indicated in the definitions.

CROSS-WORD PUZZLE No. 1 "STEPPING STONES"

If you like them easy this one will suit you, for the interlock helps you over the stickers. If you're in the expert class you can find an unusual word or two. This puzzle contains every letter in the alphabet except "k".

AN EVENTFUL DAY

By Fred M. Davis

(Written for Norway Advertiser)
The maid is ill, she's gone to bed.
She cut her fingers slicing bread.
She burnt the cake and spilled the ink.
She lost her gold ring down the sink.
My wife, she fell and broke a dish.
She spoiled my razor cleaning fish.
The kids are cross, they will not play.
And everything's gone wrong today.
The doorknob is a worthless thing.
I tried but cannot make it ring.
I got by mail a letter, too.
That read, your mortgage now is due.
Our old cow acts like a fool.
She kicked me off the milking stool.
They bother her, the pesky flies.
The milk, it flew and filled my eyes.
My hayrack is a total wreck.
The old mare fell and broke her neck.
She started out with spirits gay.
She dumped a load of meadow hay.
Our dog is nearly dead.
I hear him yelping in the shed.
He chased a hedgehog through the silos.
His head is solid full of quills.
The wind blew down the water-spout.
The bottom of the well fell out.
The calf got out but did no harm.
I had to chase him round the barn.
My Ford ran in the ditch ker-plunk.
I would call this barn-yard bunk.
I hardly knew just what to do.
Of course these lines I write are true.
I rose up early and went this morn.
To shoot a crow out in the corn.
I pulled the trigger, aiming straight.
The thing went off at half-past eight.
You may laugh, or shout, or scream.
A sadder day I've never seen.
I'm writing with an aching head.
I guess I'll huddle off to bed.
And try to dream of pleasant things.
Of laughing brooks and woodland scenes.
And wait for day that follows night.
When things, I hope, will be more bright.
Most anyone would curse and swear.
And run their fingers through their hair.
Instead, I think I'll kneel and pray.
For this has been an eventful day.
The old world goes round just the same.
Whether we're weary, sick or lame.
Whether we're weak, well or strong.
I try to call it, I'm getting along.
If a fellow can keep on going strong.
When the whole blamed world seems going wrong.
If he can keep from feeling blue.
It's a whole lot I think, don't you?
If you can, Mr. Man, you're an ace in the game.
You're branded a monarch in glory and fame.
You're like a bright star that stands out from the rest.
Your's was the acid and you've stood the test.

A BREEZE FROM THE WEST

Down where the belt clasps a little stronger,
Down where the pants should be a little longer
That's where the Vest begins.
Down where you wish you were a little slither,
Where the shirt that shows is a little whiter,
Where each day the buttons grow a little tighter.
That's where the Vest begins.
Down where the pains are in the making,
And each heavy meal will soon start it aching
That's where the Vest begins.
Where each added pound is the cause for sighing,
When you know in your heart the scales aren't lying,
And you just have to guess when your shoes need tying.
That's where the Vest begins.

HOME TRAINING COMES FIRST

One of the latest of the many uplift movements that develop from time to time has to do with teaching school boys honesty by an "honesty bureau." A big New York surety company is fostering the movement which is organized as an antidote to the increase in crime. Possibly some good results will come from instruction of the sort that is proposed. It is the "honesty bureau's" plan to work through teachers first and eventually through the home and the church, to give boys more moral teaching than they have been receiving. As a matter of the public schools now, if in charge of instructors of the right kind, as they should be, are operated in a way to impress on pupils what is right and what is wrong. After all, isn't it in the home that effective moral instruction must be given? If parents can be impressed with the need of teaching their boys honesty and if in the family circle a policy of fair dealing is scrupulously followed the need of an "honesty bureau" to work through the school would be slight. Without excluding honesty at home, some school boys may be helped by the proposed new movement, but it is a question how effective the venture will prove.

WINTER RULES

Protect your animals from cold. This will make them more comfortable and save you feed.
Stop the holes in your barn.
Board in your gaps.
An old horse, especially, like an old man, feels the cold.
Blanket your horse on frosty nights in the Fall, when their coats are short.
Give your horses and cattle a good bed.
Bedding is cheap.
Water your horses at least three times a day. The stomach of the horse is very small.
Punctuality in feeding and watering the stock is very important. They will worry and lose flesh if kept waiting beyond the regular time.
A good grooming costs no money, and is equal to two quarts of oats.
A horse cannot thrive on hay alone. He needs oats or corn for strength; and grass, bran or potatoes to keep his bowels right.
Keep your horse's feet soft, and have him shod often. More feet are ruined in the stable than on the road.
Do not degrade your family by using a lame horse.
Kill the worn-out or incurably lame horse. If you sell him, the money that you receive is blood money.
If you draw out thy soul to the hungry, and satisfy the afflicted soul; Then shall thy light rise in obscurity, and thy darkness be as the noonday; and the Lord shall guide thee continually, and satisfy thy soul in drought, and make fat thy bones.—Isa. 58:10, 11.

The truth is mighty and will prevail—at the same time a mighty lot of liars are prevailing, too.

NO OTHER PHONOGRAPH CAN DO IT!

No other phonograph even dares the test which the New Edison underwent last Friday, Dec. 12, before a large audience at Association Hall, South Paris.

That fact is something for you to think about.

The test of comparison with living artists is the only phonograph test which means anything. It is the only way in which a phonograph can irrefutably prove its realism. It is the most drastic of all phonograph tests. To sustain it, requires absolutely perfect realism—nothing less.

Last Friday, Dec. 12th, the New Edison stood by Elizabeth Spencer's side in Association Hall, South Paris. If you were there, you heard the living voice and the RE-CREATED voice brought into direct comparison. You know that there are no difference between the two voices.

By this wonderful performance, the New Edison has placed itself apart from all other phonographs and talking machines. It alone has sustained this drastic test. It alone has proved, concretely and conclusively, that it gives you the living performances of great artists.

The NEW EDISON Phonograph

Any Edison Phonograph you buy in our store will positively sustain the test made at Association Hall, South Paris. We will give you our guarantee to that effect.

Come in and hear the instrument in some further tests of its realism. Learn that you can have a New Edison of your own, on a very small cash outlay. Ask about our budget plan. Have an Edison for Xmas.

NORWAY AND VICINITY

Club Notes

Kiwanis Club Meeting
Keeping the highway open between Norway and South Paris was the chief topic under discussion at the Kiwanis Club meeting on Dec. 11. Highway Commissioners and other representatives of both towns were invited guests. O. K. Clifford of South Paris explained the winter conditions as affecting that town. E. N. Sweet of Norway introduced the question and spoke in favor of keeping the highway open for automobile traffic as was first proposed by Thomas Huston. Fay Blake of the Norway-Paris Bus Co. reported the result of his investigations in Rumford and Mexico where good auto roads are maintained during the winter. A plow on a motor truck does the work effectively, leaving a good road for late sledding. Mr. Blake figured the plow would cost $300 and about $200 for operating expense during average conditions. His proposal was, if the towns would buy the plow, he would furnish motor power and keep the road open at his expense, provided he became owner of the plow at the end of the season. After some informal discussion the matter passed without a definite action.

Pecley Ripley of South Paris presented the Brewster plan for advertising Maine through a direct publishing campaign. Funds for the purpose to be derived from a minimum appropriation from the legislature and general contributions from the towns. To come more closely in touch with the matter, a vote was carried to invite the Governor-elect, Ralph O. Brewster, and Hiram Ricker to address a joint meeting of the Norway and South Paris Boards of Trade sponsored by the Kiwanis Club. The arrangements were left with the committee of affairs and house committee of the Club together with the presidents of the Boards.

The entertainment was the Kiwanian District School with Donald B. Partridge, the teacher, equipped with a baseball bat, catcher's mask and a murderous revolver. In the first group of pupils were Normie Greenlaw, little Allie Buck, George's Lord and "Windy" Edminster, others called by the bell were "Deathly" Spiller, Bertie G. McIntire, Wallie Gray. A lesson in history was a scream for mis-information.

The singing class did themselves proud and live to tell the tale. Some of the vocalists were "Sweetie" Sweet, Georgie Hill, Charlie Bartlett, Hughie Pendexter, Ralphie Butts and Aldie Hayes. Spit balls caused Normie Greenlaw to hold down the dunce's stool and provided a foolscap headgear.

Many pupils appeared in costumes appropriate to an age not far remote from the Daniel Webster dynasty. The school was a scream and the teacher Klax-horn.

Harry Dudley, who lives at the Wheeler farm some three miles from South Paris on the East Oxford road and peddles apples in Norway, reports buying a fifty-acre farm adjoining, which he will carry on next summer.

Skating has been enjoyed this week on Tannery brook and on parts of Pennessewassee stream above the falls.

The club room and lunch counter in the armory have good patronage as cold weather approaches. "Fat" Mattor is handling the hot dog "cave" from which Co. C. 103rd Infantry receives a certain income from sales. The money is for use at the summer camp.

Win Allen will move at once into his home on Elm street recently bought of Norvel Brown. This house is the one remodelled after the fire some months ago and owned at the time by Mr. Allen.

Mrs. Irving B. Witham was given a surprise birthday gathering at her home, Friday evening, by a group of friends. A party of sixteen enjoyed the evening with music and sociability. A large birthday cake was among the refreshments. She received numerous gifts, many were remembrances from her children and are highly prized. The affair broke up at a late hour after a delightful evening long to be remembered.

Albert Desocoteau was called to Sherbrooke, Canada, by the critical condition of a relative who was injured in an automobile accident.

Roy Fletcher and Arthur Olmstead went to Burlington, Vt., last week to work at the Walter P. Tubbs snow shoe factory.

S. O. Jellerson has been in Boston a few days, recently, on business.

Mrs. Victorine Blanchard, who has been spending three weeks in Boston, has returned home.

Work of the County Agent

Big Returns Shown in Agent's Report For Year

R. F. Thomas, County Agent in Oxford County, has just completed annual report to the County Commissioners, Trustees of the University of Maine and the Federal Government, which is required by law of each agent. The report shows that $54,603.76 net profits were returned to those who cooperated with the Extension Service.

It covers 112 typewritten pages besides the appendix of 32 pages. It sets forth the accomplishments of Extension work in the county for the period Dec. 1, 1923-Dec. 1, 1924.

From Dec. 1, 1923-Feb. 19, 1924, R. H. Lovejoy was county agent. Mr. Thomas was appointed as his successor and came on duty March 1. Since that time his entire time has been devoted to carrying out the work for the year.

The report covers many different branches of work among which are the most important: Club work has been carried on in the county with an enrollment of 548 of which 62 per cent finished their work. This has been a profitable project. From records kept profits of $2,765.29 including prizes, was returned to boys and girls enrolled in the work and who completed. Oxford County has always ranked high in club work and it has always been one of the best pieces of work.

The crops project has proven to be a good one, returning to farmers a total of $16,870.97. This year it included lime demonstrations, top dressing grassland campaign and improved seed potatoes. The lime project reached 23 communities and 171 farmers, who used 417 tons of lime. During June the county agent made careful weighings of clover on limited and unlimited demonstration plots on farms in the county and the average increased yield due to the use of lime was 1250. Many yields amounted to over two tons per acre through the use of lime. Based on yield and average net profits per acre, this project returned a profit of $2,380.97 to the farmers.

In the top dressing campaign there were 102 cooperators enrolled who used 52 tons of nitrate of soda and acid phosphate to apply to their grassland. Many reported big yields due to the use of these chemicals and as a result of their use there was returned to the farmers, after figuring cost of chemicals and labor, a net profit of $1,386.00.

The improved potato seed plot work interested many farmers because of the increase in quantity and quality of potatoes raised. A. H. Russ, Bryant Pond, harvested 140 bushels of splendid potatoes from 3-8 acre seed plot. This yield is at the rate of 374 bushels per acre.

E. S. Barrett, Sumner, harvested 47 1-2 bushels from 1-0 acre. E. A. Barker, Bethel, harvested 58 bushels from 1-8 acre. Frank R. Taylor, Frye, reported a big yield of 405 bushels from a little more than an acre. Approximately 1,400 bushels of improved seed were used in demonstration work. This project reached 150 farmers. Due to average increased yield reported per acre, this project returned to the farmers in this county $13,104.00 profits.

Under the dairy project, 19 different farmers have secured benefits from cow test association work. Since 1921 when it was first started, 60 cows have been eliminated as not profitable. Most of these have been replaced by others. Over 160 cows are under test. Better methods of management of dairy cows are learned by being in such work.

Ten demonstrations were conducted to improve pastures by using lime and acid phosphate. These demonstrations run more than a year because the results are lasting. Under the Farm Management project, 158 accounts including farm, poultry, sweet corn, potato and orchard were kept on farms in this county. Many of these started accounts in 1921 and have kept an account each month. Many farmers have changed their methods of farming since keeping an account.

Forestry: this was a new project this year and surely proved a good one. There were 13 timber estimating demonstrations scheduled and held at which 187 men attended to learn the practical method of estimating standing timber through cruising sticks purchased approximately 500 acres have been estimated thus far. One forest tree setting demonstration was carried out in Denmark this year, at which 4000 pine and spruce seedlings and transplants were set.

The orchard project proved to be the most profitable on account of its size. Under this project, fertility work was responsible for such results. Over 40,000 trees were fertilized with nitrate of soda. Based on results of demonstrations and cooperators in yield of apples, it returned $35,420.00 dollars. 70 tons of nitrate was used alone in this county for such work.

Besides fertility work, high grade apple trees were purchased through the community planting plan, saving many dollars to those who purchased. In addition, seven men started home nurseries this year and purchased 4700 root grafts. Poultry project: This proved to be an old reliable project and reached many farmers. Four live vs dressed poultry demonstrations were conducted which showed a profit of 3-4 cents per pound in favor of dressing poultry before selling.

Eighteen selecting breeders demonstrations were held to teach poultrymen how to select poultry to hold over as breeders. Approximately 200 people attended these demonstrations and afterwards selected approximately 600 birds as breeders.

A few culling demonstrations were held in communities that were not reached last year in the campaign. The average per cent of birds removed as culls was 37.29. The average per cent production before culling was 36.22. The average per cent production after culling was 55.96. Besides the above results a saving of approximately 13c a month was saved by disposing of the losers, meaning a saving to some of the cooperators of $4.00 a month on feed saved.

Besides gathering and tabulating data on the above projects, the following work was done since March 1: 106 1-4 days were spent in the office; 124 3-4 days in the field; 23 calls were made on project leaders; 144 on demonstrators; 91 on other farmers; 197 persons called on the Extension representative; 75 miscellaneous calls. There were 60 meetings and demonstrations at which 648 farmers attended. There were held 74 meetings in relation to projects at which 3176 farmers attended. 34 miscellaneous meetings, attendance 1571. Number of letters written, 1116; phone calls 231.

In supervising the work in the county, a total of 7,878.7 miles were traveled. Sixty-one circular letters were written and 4334 copies mailed out. 60 articles written for the public press and 78 for the Farm Bureau News.

Sowing Seed for Harvest

The Bridgton News takes a sensible view of the State advertising scheme as recently mapped out. We agree with it fully, with possibly a single exception and that is "that public money should never be expended by a private organization." In this our mind is open though leaning a bit towards the private organization. But all the rest of the article was heartily endorsed. Here it is:

A publicity campaign was recently launched at a conference of the prominent citizens of the state recently called by Governor-elect Brewster for the purpose of devising ways and means to attract more summer tourists to the State of Maine.

All efforts in this regard are of course laudable and should be encouraged by every public spirited person of the state. All publicity along these lines is good, but some is better than others. The idea is by no means a novel one. The Maine Publicity Bureau, an offshoot of the Automobile Association, was organized for this very purpose.

The last legislature passed a resolve appropriating $50,000 for carrying out this idea. Unfortunately when it reached Governor Baxter he drew his blue pencil through it and returned it to the legislature without his approval, thereby breaking the heart of one of its chief sponsors, Rep. "Sherm" Douglass of Lamoine.

The Brewster plan contemplates the raising of a fund by the respective towns and cities to be turned over to some central bureau for expenditure. The Maine Publicity Bureau has been suggested as the administrative department. Two objections readily present themselves to this plan.

One is that public money should never be expended by a private organization and the other is that while some municipalities might fall into line and make appropriations to the fund, there would be many more who would pass it up. The result would be that either the publicity would be localized and confined to such places as made contributions to the fund, or that the few would be paying for the many.

If we are to advertise Maine, as we must in order to keep pace with the other states which are making a wholesale bid for the tourist business, we must all pay our proportionate share through a state tax rather than through a municipal levy. It really does not make much difference whether a mill is added to our town tax, or to our state tax, or all amounts to the same in the end.

It is easy, with our God-given scenic charms to attract the people to Maine, but it is another thing to keep them coming here year after year in ever increasing numbers. We must be careful not to "kill the goose that lays the golden egg." It is not the monetary consideration that troubles these non-residents so much as it is the principle of the thing.

As our law now stands we invite the motorist into Maine and after he has been here thirty days and wants to stay a few days longer we make him pay a full year's registration fee on his machine. We invite him to fish and then make him pay a license of $3.15 for the privilege while the resident gets by for twenty-five cents.

We tell him about the game possibilities in the State of Maine and then when he comes we hold him up for a fee of fifteen dollars and under certain circumstances make him hire a resident guide before we will allow him to go into the woods.

We make him pay a tax of one cent not alone for the gas he uses in his car, but also for the gas he uses in his pleasure launch, and we do a great many other things which we ought not to do, and which to the summer guest looks a good deal like highway robbery.

If we really want the summer tourist to come into Maine and go away with a firm determination to come again next year, we should change our ways a little and be a trifle more liberal in our treatment of these people.

The legislature would do well to enact a law which would furnish means for a country wide publicity campaign of the state of Maine, but it would do infinitely better if it would repeal some of the legislation which has already been enacted.

The "scenic charms" speak for themselves. There is no argument about that, but it is our treatment of these tourists which will be productive of much more for reaching results. Let's send them back home not only loud in their praise of the natural resources of the state but of the people as well.

BYRANT'S POND

Judith Grover Tent, No. 17, D. of V. entertained Mrs. Lilla Rice of Norway at their meeting held Dec. 2. Owing to rough weather, not as many members as usual were able to attend. A great deal of helpful instruction was given by Sister Rice in regard to the work. After the meeting a radio lunch was served by Sisters Ring, Brown, Andrews and Emery.

LET THIS MIND BE IN YOU, which was also in Christ Jesus. Let nothing be done through strife or vainglory; but in lowliness of mind let each esteem other better than themselves.—Philippians 2:5, 3.

The greatest fire-fighter of them all—for your roof

FIRE-FIGHTING men will tell you that their greatest ally is not so much a device to put fires out but rather a material that prevents fire. Such is Johns-Manville Asbestos Roofing—either in shingle or roll form.

It is not only fire-safe, but it is beautiful, weather-tight and permanent! Yet with all these fine roofing qualities, it is surprisingly low in cost—hardly more than ordinary rag-felt roofing.

While we recommend Johns-Manville Asbestos Shingles or Roll Roofing for practically every purpose, we also carry all grades of roofing so that we can meet your price requirements.

NORTH FRYEBURG

Mrs. Vina Flint

For the second time within the past few weeks, our little community is shrouded in sadness as Mrs. Vina Flint passed to that undiscovered country from whose home no traveler returns. Mrs. Vina Flint passed away Thursday, Dec. 4, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ralph Adams. She has been a great sufferer for a good many years and has been faithfully cared for by her daughter, Sadie. She leaves one daughter and two sons, James of Conway and Robert of this place.

Funeral services were held at her late home Sunday afternoon, Rev. A. W. Smith speaking words of comfort to the bereaved family. She was laid at rest amidst beautiful flowers attesting to the high esteem in which she was held by her friends and neighbors.

About two miles from Paris Hill on the road to Hebron on a farm owned by B. Y. Russell is a small yard fairly well fenced but it does not appear to have a great amount of care. It was a neighborhood yard and the relatives and friends are all dead or moved away.

BUYING THE TOYS

Some little girls will have big, flaxen-haired dolls smiling from their stockings on Christmas morning. Some little boys will have toy airplanes, bows and arrows and all the other paraphernalia of modern nursery warfare.

Some other little girls and boys won't. But those dolls are the ordinary sawdust kind with eyes staring, it must be confessed, rather stupidly, in front of them, and those whose toy soldiers are just everyday fellows, are to be congratulated.

The toys have known it all along. They have known, too, that the humbler ones their assemblage, now so shiny with new paint in a thousand toy shops over the land, are due for a far happier life than their pretentious brothers and sisters, who are destined for the homes of the rich. For a toy's happiness is measured by the love that is lavished upon it. And the child who has one simple toy thinks far more of it than he or she who has a new trinket for every mood.

Psychologists are beginning to find this out. They have worked out a whole involved system of toy teachings, in which the child mind dwells principally on simple objects, plain contours and brave, not delicate colors.

So if it is a momentary sigh comes to you because you cannot afford to have Santa Clause bring "the best there is" to your little lad or lassie, smile instead. They will be all the better for it.—Sunday Press Herald.
